

Scolari srl Company Policy

After having pursued in these years a way that has led to the consolidation of the operating practices and the business procedures with the achievement of the certification ISO 9001; now our company adesso la nostra Organizzazione intends to pursue the following objectives

Compete on the market

The context in which our organization operates, is aimed at diversified sectors, the competitors, especially foreign, is specialized in defined sectors; our policy is to pursue commercial strategies in various sectors, based on the knowledge and skills of our technicians and the reliability of our drying plants. The pillars to base on the future of the company are:

Customer Orientation and Context Analysis

The needs of the customer must be understood and placed in the foreground during all the daily activities. In this perspective the investments of the last years of Scolari Srl, have been based to the research and innovation of new technologies for the realization of combustion at low consumption with the realization of machinery / plants designed and customized to adapt to the most complex supply specifications, with maximum yield

Analysis of Service/Product Quality Risks

The complexity of the areas in which our services are located, requires an accurate analysis of the critical issues that may emerge in the normal execution of operational activities as well as for the respect of the expectations of the interested parties. A careful analysis of historical factors of probability of occurrence, severity of product/service spill-over and ease of detection, allows us to monitor the most dangerous situations in order to be able to manage in advance the implementation dynamics or to implement management methods specifically identified

Responsibility and Leadership

In the organizations of our size, it is essential that everyone is responsible for himself and faces, as such, his duties; the coordinators of the various functions have the task of creating the conditions for better collaboration between people.

Process Approach and Continuous Improvement

The organization of the company is structured for processes that must be effective and efficient; Every year the Management defines indicators and objectives for the measurement and monitoring of these processes, the level of achievement of which will be disseminated to all the staff of Scolari Srl,. During the annual data analysis, initiatives will be agreed to pursue the path of continuous improvement and in which all company staff are invited to participate actively

Relationship with suppliers and employees

To provide a quality service it is essential to have suppliers and collaborators of appropriate level; it is everybody's duty, in collaboration with the Quality Management Manager and the managers of function, select the suppliers and establish with these clear and profitable relationships.
